The Quality Indicators for Learning and Teaching (QILT) are a coherent suite of surveys that cover higher education from commencement to employment. The surveys provide robust, timely and transparent information about Australian higher education institutions from the perspective of recent students and graduates.

The surveys include:

- the Student Experience Survey, measuring learning experiences and satisfaction of current students
- the Graduate Outcomes Survey, examining labour market outcomes of newly qualified higher education graduates
- the Graduate Outcomes Survey – Longitudinal, providing information on medium-term graduate labour market outcomes
- the Employer Satisfaction Survey, assessing the generic skills, technical skills and work readiness of graduates.

This website provides access to high level results from the QILT, including national research reports and data visualisation tools. Data from the QILT surveys also underpins the ComparED website, where users can compare key results by institution and study area.

This website is maintained by the Social Research Centre.

All queries about the website, including requests for data, should be directed to the Social Research Centre.

The QILT initiative, including this website, are funded by the Australian Government Department of Education.
